TSL Workshop

Lymphoedema

WKS LY1 Duration 7 hours

TSL is an Australian owned and managed business that adds value to Allied Health Professionals through its education and training workshops. These workshops are held at our premises and are a very successful way for us to share our knowledge with your staff resulting in a better understanding of the measuring, fitting and manufacturing processes.

WKS LY1 is an introduction for Physiotherapists, Occupational Therapists, and nurses working in the Lymphoedema field.

The outline for the day is as follows:

- General overview of TSL business, various fabrics available and their function
- Various fabrics used up close
- Major Principles in designing TSL garments
- Graduated Compression and how do we apply it
- Research & Development
- How to design a pattern, how to cut and sew a garment and quality control
- Visit work room on site. View 1st hand how the garments are constructed.
This will include pattern making, cutting & sewing demonstrations.
- Custom Made Versus Ready To Fit Range
- How various textiles may be added to enhance the performance of a custom made compression garment.
- Case Study analysis. Discuss design options for 3 cases.
The outcome of each study will demonstrate that there are often various choice designs available and how to evaluate for the best choice. Maybe, we would suggest something not considered before. After spending the day with TSL, and seeing what we have to offer, your thoughts may differ from earlier choices.
